For Immediate Release

Institute for Graphics and Imaging Half-Day Training Session to Review Best Practices for Preparing Digital Files

Pewaukee, Wisconsin—August 2009—The Institute for Graphics and Imaging (IGI)—an education and training organization funded by and dedicated to the printing and graphic arts industry—has scheduled a half-day review of best practices for preparing digital files. The course is scheduled for the morning of September 17, 2009. The review will be conducted by James Wamser, Senior Training Specialist at Sells Printing Company. Wamser is an Adobe Certified Instructor Print Specialist, with more than 16 years experience in the graphic arts. The review is appropriate for production managers, prepress personnel, and creative professionals. Tuition for the review is $99. Course details and registration forms may be found at www.igi.org/events\_calendar/.

Discussing the digital file review, IGI Executive Director Ron Dahl commented: “James Wamser is eminently qualified to teach this course, in a subject he deals with daily. The course is being presented the day after PRINT 09 in Chicago closes, enabling students to coordinate travel with the show and reduce travel expenses.”

The Institute for Graphics and Imaging provides education and training in the graphic design, printing, and related industries. Supported by a vast network of industry suppliers, printers, publishers, and governmental agencies, IGI operates on the campus of the Waukesha County Technical College in suburban Milwaukee. IGI facilities, which include computer classrooms and access to the latest printing equipment, are available for sales events and corporate training courses. For additional information go to www.igi.org or call 262-695-6260.
